CITY OF INDIANAPOLIS,

To the President and Members of the Common Council:

viding penalties for the violation thereof, and fixing the time when the same shall take effect."

G. O. No. 22, 1901, being "An ordinance fixing the salary of watchmen and telephone men employed in the fire department of the City of Indianapolis, and fixing the time when the same shall take effect."

Mayor.

Which was read and ordered spread on the minutes.

His Honor, the Mayor, presented the following communication:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
CITY OF INDIANAPOLIS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., May 29, 1901.

To the President and Members of the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith return to you G. O. No. 10, 1901, without my signature, with some of the objections attached:

(1) The Plumbing Inspector, according to the provisions of the ordinance, is appointed by the Board of Health and Charities. Any appeal from any decision of the Inspector, according to the present ordinance, must be made to the Board of Public Works. It would seem to me that the Plumbing Inspector, who would be under the jurisdiction of the Board of Public Health and Charities, that any appeal from his decision, in regard to plumbing matters, should be made to said Board of Health.

(2) Section six provides that in case of a firm or combination of persons, other than a corporation, engaged in the business of plumbing, each and every member of such firm or combination of persons shall pass such examination, and be licensed as herein provided. This is an unjust discrimination between a corporation and a firm.

(3) Section fifteen provides that every dwelling house, hotel, apartment house, tenement house, factory, store or other building, in which plumbing arrangements are to be placed, shall be connected with the city sewer, when such sewer is provided, and when such sewer is not provided with a cesspool, in a location to be approved by the Inspector of Plumbing. As no distance for a sewer connection is named, it is indefinite and uncertain in this section.

(4) The meaning of tenement house and apartment house should be defined. Ordinarily, a tenement house is a building arranged for three or more families, doing cooking independently.

(5) According to Section 17, every building in which a fire wall divides said building, there shall be separate and independent plumbing. Many double houses are now being constructed with a fire wall separating the two halves. In order to reduce the cost of plumbing in these buildings a line of soil pipe is run in this fire wall, for the purpose of serving the two sides of the building; also one house drain with all of the necessary appurtenances.

According to the provisions of this section, it will be necessary to provide separate and independent drains, and separate and independent soil and vent pipes. This is burdening the property owners with considerable extra expense.

(6) In Section 25, another burdensome provision exists, requiring every refrigerator, or waste pipe, to discharge into a drip tray, and thence into an open sink.

This provision would be proper in hotels, tenement houses, and apartment houses, but I think it entirely unnecessary in private dwellings, as the owner of the dwelling would be required to put in, in addition to the drip tray, a sink. This sink must be provided with a flap with a vent pipe, all of which would add greatly to the cost of plumbing.

(7) Section 32 is in conflict with Section 26, as to the size of vent pipes.

(8) Section 41 provides for grease traps under every sink in hotels, restaurants, eating house or boarding house, or other public cooking establishments. This provision should be made optional with the Inspector to require only such grease traps where a waste pipe would be liable to be clogged up by grease from the kitchen sink, in the kind of buildings described.

(9) The provisions of this ordinance, requiring in all cases extra heavy cast iron, or wrought iron soil, vent and waste pipes; providing for vent pipes for all traps, requiring independent soil and vent pipes for all buildings or parts of buildings separated by fire walls, requiring a test of all plumbing and drainage system, will add greatly to the present cost of plumbing.

A plumbing ordinance, in my judgment, should be passed requiring, at the beginning, only such provisions as are necessary to secure proper sanitary conditions.

It is also apparent that one Plumbing Inspector cannot look after and do the work satisfactorily provided for in this ordinance. The result will be that the inspection of plumbing, in many houses, will be delayed, causing additional expense to the property owners.

Respectfully submitted,

T. TAGGART,
Mayor.

Which was read and ordered spread on the minutes.
